The officers drew their swords and charged their assailants, many of whom were injured. Fifty of the strikers were arrested.

The mob made a desperate attempt to rescue those taken prisoners, but the police were finally able to get their prisoners away in an ambulance.

Although the night was hot and rainy, every seat was taken, and the spectators gave a most enthusiastic send-off to the reopening of the popular house. The attraction was the Bon Ton Burlesquers, who are well and favorably known in Washington. They gave their usual good show, both in the burlesque and in the ollo, and are stronger this season than before.

Thursday, Royal Robinson today declared that when the case is called again he also will have additional evidence to submit.

small housebreaking and robberies that have occurred in the business section of the city during the past two or three weeks.

The boys are Earl Thoma, aged twelve, and Eugene Raymond Brooks, a negro, aged eleven. The boys, who are being held on charge of housebreaking, were subjected to rigid questioning with the result that a lengthy confession was obtained from the little negro boy. The white boy admitted his complicity in one or two attempts, but steadfastly denied any connection with the robbery that led to their arrest.

Brooks was arrested after the saloon of Robert Hoy had been entered about 7:39 Sunday night. Ten dollars in money and two diamond rings had been stolen. In addition to this affair the boys are said to have quite a record for small robberies. F. P. May's store was broken into the other day and since then other stores on Pennsylvania Avenue have been robbed. Detective Berman, who has the case in hand, thinks he will be able to recover some of the lost property.
